4	ARKWRIGHT	ANTHONY	Home Sec	1989	Hacked and battered to death three people including his grandfather in Yorkshire on a two-day killing spree in August 1988 when aged 21. He was convicted of all three murders and sentenced to life imprisonment the following year. He was also suspected of a fourth murder committed around the same time but never charged.[9]
5	ARSHAD	RAHAN	Judicial	2006	Murdered his wife and three children , who were found dead in their home in Cheadle Hulme, Stockport, Greater Manchester in August 2006.[22]
6	BAMBER	JEREMY NEVILL	Home Sec	1986	Shot dead his adoptive parents, sister and six-year-old twin nephews at the family farmhouse in Essex in order to claim a six-figure inheritance while also laying evidence to suggest his sister, a schizophrenic, had committed the murders before killing herself. His trial judge said in sentencing him that he found the idea of ever seeing Bamber free again "difficult to foresee", and advised that he should serve at least 25 years behind bars before release could even be considered. Bamber has nonetheless spent his sentence continuously protesting his innocence, asking for support on a website he runs from prison and seeking new evidence to launch fresh appeals. Support for his case is increasing, including backing from his MP. He is the only whole life tariff prisoner who has not accepted guilt or culpability and was also the youngest such prisoner when the original list was published. Despite the law lords' ruling in November 2002, Bamber has been told by the Home Secretary that he will never be released.
7	BAXENDALE	DAVID WILLIAM	Judicial	2011	Convicted in March 2011 of the murder by repeated stabbing of a woman in Nutfield, Surrey, in June 2010. Baxendale, who had a history of violence stretching back to around 1990, had previously been convicted of murder in Spain , where he had repeatedly stabbed his victim; for this crime he was sentenced to 11 years in prison at his trial in 2001 and served seven years of his sentence before being deported back to Britain.[39]
8	BELLFIELD	LEVI LEE	Judicial	2008	Attacked three women, killing two in sexually motivated attacks between 2001 and 2004. ^[24] In 2011, he was convicted of murdering Surrey teenager Amanda "Milly" Dowler nine years previously, and the trial judge in this case also sentenced Bellfield to life imprisonment with the recommendation that life should mean life. Bellfield has also been identified as a suspect - but never charged - over other unsolved murders and attacks on women in the South-East since the early 1990s. ^[25]

9	BRADY	IAN	Home Sec	1966	One of the Moors Murderers who was convicted, in May 1966, of murdering three children . With accomplice Myra Hindley, he buried the children in shallow graves on Saddleworth Moor. Two decades later, they admitted abducting and killing two more children, and were taken back to the Moor to try and locate the graves. Only one was found. Since 1985 he has been held in a mental hospital and has been on long-term hunger strike, which has led to his being force-fed through a tube. He has published a book on serial killing. The body of one of his victims, 12-year-old Keith Bennett, remains undiscovered on the Moor, despite Brady's and Hindley's own heavily guarded efforts to locate the remains themselves. In 2006 Brady wrote to the missing child's mother to claim he remembered enough to be taken to within 20 yards of the grave, but was not permitted to do so. ^[1]
10	BRIDGER	MARK	Judicial	2013	Bridger was found guilty of abducting and murdering 5-year old April Jones, who was last seen alive on 1 October 2012, in Machynlleth, Wales. He claimed to have accidentally run her over while driving and that he could not remember where he had hidden her body due to being intoxicated. In spite of this story, he was found guilty of abduction, murder and perverting the course of justice on 30 May 2013, and was sentenced to life imprisonment with a recommendation that he should never be released. Although April Jones's body was never found, police linked her DNA profile to bone fragments and blood found in Bridger's house and concluded that she had suffered unsurvivable injuries, and were able to press murder charges despite having not found her body. ^[46]
11	CASTIGADOR	VICTOR	Home Sec	1990	A Filipino illegal immigrant who led a gang of robbers on a grudge attack at a London amusement arcade where he himself worked. Four members of staff were tied up, locked in a cage within the vault before being doused in white spirit and set alight. Two died, two suffered serious burns . Castigador received an initial 25-year tariff from his trial judge which was duly extended to a whole life tariff, but the November 2002 law lords' ruling means that he could still be released from prison as early as 2015 (by which time he will be 61 years old) if the parole board decides he is no longer a danger to the public. One of his teenage accomplices was sentenced to life with a recommended minimum of 20 years; a subsequent appeal against this recommendation at the High Court was rejected.
12	CHILDS	JOHN HENRY	Home Sec	1979	Robert John Maudsley (born June 1953) is a serial killer who killed four people . He committed three of these murders in prison after receiving a life sentence for a single murder in the mid 1970s. He was alleged to have eaten part of the brain of one of three men he killed in prison, which earned him the nickname "Hannibal the Cannibal" among the British press. ^{[5][6][7]}
13	CHIVERS	MARC	Judicial	2009	Strangled his ex-girlfriend Maria Stubbings with a dog lead in December 2008. He pleaded guilty to the crime in court 12 months later and was jailed for life. He had previously served 15 years in prison in Germany for murdering another ex-girlfriend and was deported to the UK in January 2008. Chivers had a string of previous convictions for some extreme cases of violent behaviour. [
14	COOK	DAVID	Judicial	2012	Convicted in 1988 of murder , Cook was released in 2009 after strangling a woman whilst on licence for robberies. Cook strangled a second victim when on parole, and the second judge gave him a whole life tariff. ^[41]

15	COONAN	PETER	Judicial	2010	The Yorkshire Ripper , who murdered 13 women and attacked seven others between 1975 and 1980 across West Yorkshire, plus two in Greater Manchester. He was caught by chance while sitting in his car with a prostitute and potential victim in Sheffield in January 1981, and made a full confession to each attack to the police, even though they had only arrested him for having false number plates. At his trial later in 1981 he pleaded guilty to manslaughter but was convicted of 13 murders and was jailed for life. He was initially held in a mainstream prison before being transferred to a mental hospital. It was frequently reported in the media that he was among the prisoners to have been issued with a whole life tariff, but he was not on a list of 35 such prisoners which was published in December 2006. A whole life tariff was imposed by High Court on 16 July 2010. (He was convicted in the name of Peter Sutcliffe.)
16	COOPER	JOHN WILLIAM	Judicial	2011	Convicted in 2011 of two double murders in Pembrokeshire, Wales, the first in 1985 and the second in 1989. ^[38]
17	CREGAN	DALE	Judicial	2013	Cregan murdered Police Constables Nicola Hughes and Fiona Bone , two Greater Manchester Police officers, in a gun and grenade attack on 18 September 2012. 18	DAWSON	ANDREW	Judicial	2011	Convicted of the murder of John David Matthews and Paul Hancock in July 2010. He was out on licence from a previous murder conviction committed in the 1980s.[40]
19	DEMBOVSKIS	VIKTORS	Judicial	2006	A Latvian immigrant who raped and murdered a 17-year-old neighbour as she walked home from school in west London, before fleeing back to Latvia. Dembovskis was deported from Latvia after a joint operation by British and Latvian police. It was revealed that Dembovskis had a string of convictions in Latvia stretching back 25 years including two rapes in the 1990s. Given his appalling record, the trial judge advised that Dembovskis should never be freed - a rare recommendation for someone guilty of a single murder.
20	DENNEHY	JOANNA	Judicial	2014	Described by the judge as a "cruel, calculating, selfish and manipulative serial killer". Convicted of murdering three men in seemingly random attacks in March 2013. Sentenced on 28 February 2014 to a whole life tariff, making her one of only three women to be handed a whole life sentence and the first woman ever to be given this sentence by a judge.[53]

21	DUFFY	JOHN FRANCIS	Home Sec	1988	The Railway Killer , who attacked numerous women in the south of England, raping all of them and murdering three , before revolutionary psychological profiling helped police to catch him, although they got no nearer the accomplice they knew Duffy worked with. He was given a 30-year tariff for two murders and seven rapes which, after the law lords' ruling, was reactivated, meaning that he could be considered for release in 2018. After 12 years in prison, Duffy went on a conscience-clearing exercise, admitting to a third killing of which he had been originally acquitted, and implicating schoolfriend David Mulcahy as his accomplice. He also revealed his part in countless other rapes, for which he received a further 12 years. After Duffy gave evidence against him, Mulcahy was given life sentences for three murders and seven rapes in 2001 but was not subjected to a whole life tariff because of the timing of his case in relation with the review.
22	DYCE	WILBERT	Judicial	2010	Convicted in 2010 of a 1982 triple murder in which a mother and her two young daughters were killed.[34]
23	FARROW	STEPHEN JOHN	Judicial	2012	Farrow, a vagrant with a history of psychiatric illness, was convicted of the murders of Betty Yates (aged 77) and the Reverend John Suddards (aged 59) . ^[44] Mr Justice Field, sentencing, said: "The sentence for murder is a mandatory life sentence and in respect of each count I pass a life sentence. I next have to consider whether you should be made the subject of a whole life sentence or whether a minimum term should be set. I am satisfied that in your case a whole life sentence is an appropriate sentence in each of these dreadful, horrific killings." ^[45]
24	GLEN	PAUL NIGEL	Judicial	2004	Glen was employed as a hitman and in 2004 had been hired to murder Vincent Smart , but instead he murdered Mr Smart's friend Robert Bogle. ^[15] After his trial, it was revealed that Glen had a previous conviction for murder . ^[15]
25	GREEN	MALCOLM JOHN	Home Sec	1991	Malcolm Green was jailed for life in 1971 for the brutal murder of a Cardiff prostitute. When he was released after 18 years, he bludgeoned to death a young tourist from New Zealand. Green dismembered the body, wrapped it in plastic bags, and dumped it in different places along a road in South Wales. He was sentenced to life again in October 1991, with a recommendation that he should serve a minimum of 25 years, but was given a whole life tariff by the Home Secretary.[10]
26	GRIFFITHS	STEPHEN SHAUN	Judicial	2010	Convicted of murdering three women in Bradford, one murder involving the use of a crossbow. ^[35] He dismembered his victims before dumping the remains in the river Aire. Griffiths also claimed to have cannibalised his victims, though this has never been definitively proven.
27	HARDY	ANTHONY AJ	Judicial	2010	Killing of three women to "satisfy depraved and perverted needs".[32] Police believe he was involved in six other murders of women but these cases have not been brought to court.
28	HEGGARTY	PHILLIP PETER	Judicial	2004	Convicted of murdering his friend , Derek Bennett, in a hammer attack in 2003. ^[17] He later set fire to a Renault Laguna after placing Mr Bennett's body in it which was so severely burnt that it had to be identified by dental records. ^[17] His life sentence was with a minimum of 30 years but it was later increased to a whole life order. He is currently incarcerated in Gartree Prison as per the Channel 4 prison documentary Lifers .

29	HOBSON	MARK RICHARD	Judicial	2005	Murdered his girlfriend, her twin sister and an elderly couple in Yorkshire before going on the run with the whole nation's police looking for him. He was eventually arrested after being spotted hiding in bushes near a motorway service station. Pled guilty to all charges and was sentenced to life imprisonment with the judge advising that his life sentence should mean exactly that. Hobson later appealed for a lower tariff to be set on the grounds that he merited some credit for admitting to the crimes at an early opportunity in order to avoid a trial, but this was rejected by the Lord Chief Justice.
30	HORNCY	WILLIAM	Judicial	2005	Achieved notoriety in 2005 when he was convicted of murdering millionaire Amarjit Chohan as well as Chohan's wife, mother-in-law and two sons in an effort to take over the Chohan family freight business to ship drugs into the UK. ^[18] The bodies of Chohan's two sons were never found. ^[18]
31	HUTCHINSON	ARTHUR	Home Sec	1984	A fugitive who gatecrashed a wedding reception at a house in Sheffield shortly after the bride and groom had left and stabbed to death the bride's father, mother and brother, before raping her sister at knifepoint. Police quickly labelled him as the killer after identifying a handprint on a champagne bottle and a bitemark in a piece of cheese. He was already on the run from answering a charge of violent rape and had previous convictions for offences of violence, indecent assault and dishonesty. Now a pensioner, his trial judge recommended an 18-year tariff which expired in 2002 but he remains in prison, having been listed by the Home Secretary as a whole-life prisoner. Hutchinson appealed this twice through the High Court, but the court upheld the decision of the Home Secretary on both occasions, meaning he is likely to die in prison.
32	JACKSON	ROYSTON MACDON	Judicial	2010	Convicted of the murder of convicted sex offender Gordon Boon in October 2008, after being released on licence two years earlier following his conviction for another murder he had committed in 1989.[30]
33	JOHNSON	GEORGE NORMAN	Judicial	2011	Convicted in 2011 of the premeditated murder of 89-year-old Florence Habesch in February that year to fund his drug addiction. Wolverhampton-born Johnson already had a 1986 murder conviction. ^[37]
34	LEE	DESMOND JAMES	Judicial	2010	Desmond Lee was branded "evil and dangerous" as he was told he would spend the rest of his life behind bars. The 39-year-old killed his lover Christopher Pratt, before dumping his body. He committed the offence at his flat while out on licence, having spent nearly 14 years in jail for the murder of Bradford woman Shirley Carr in 1989. Lee killed his lover by breaking his voice box and a bone in his neck. The body was still in his flat when he stole Mr Pratt's credit and debit cards, paid off a phone bill, bought booze for a party with neighbours, ordered more than £200-worth of food from Asda and attempted to buy £1,181-worth of goods from Argos. The day after the murder, he bundled the naked body into the back of the dead man's car and drove to Scammonden, where he dumped it on moorland.
35	MADEN	JOHN	Judicial	2010	Drugged, raped and killed his 12-year-old niece at his Manchester home after luring her there on the pretext of babysitting. He then phoned police and told them that he had murdered her "because he felt like it". He had previously developed an obsession with violent pornography and images of extreme child abuse.[33]
36	MARTIN	MARK JOSEPH	Judicial	2005	He killed three homeless women in Nottingham between December 2004 and January 2005, declaring his ambition to become "Nottingham's first serial killer".

37	MATTHEWS	RYAN	Judicial	2015	62 year old convicted murderer Matthews was sentenced to a whole life term on 9 January 2015, after pleading guilty to the murder of healthcare assistant Sharon Wall at Wotton Hill Hospital in Gloucester on 9 July 2014. Matthews left Broadmoor Secure Hospital in 1999 under the Mental Health Act and his mental health had "deteriorated" throughout stays in various hospitals following his release. Matthews was already serving a life sentence having been convicted in 1983 (under the name Stephen Cecil King) of two other murders and a count of conspiracy to murder . ^[55] (This case does not appear in the CPS list.)
38	MAWDSLEY	ROBERT JOHN	Home Sec	1977	Robert John Maudsley (born June 1953) is a serial killer who killed four people . He committed three of these murders in prison after receiving a life sentence for a single murder in the mid 1970s. He was alleged to have eaten part of the brain of one of three men he killed in prison, which earned him the nickname "Hannibal the Cannibal" among the British press. ^{[5][6][7]}
39	MCGRADY	JOHN JOSEPH	Judicial	2006	A convicted rapist who strangled and mutilated a 15-year-old girl in London before dumping her dismembered remains in bin bags. ^[21] He slit his wrists and confessed to his girlfriend after the attack, but his suicide bid was thwarted and he was successfully brought to justice. ^[21] However, much was made in court of his refusal to co-operate with the police and other authorities, especially on the issue of how or why the teenager was in his flat at the outset, although police remain convinced she did not go willingly. The judge said that McGrady, who had previous convictions for raping and kidnapping women , was a highly dangerous predator and should never be released from prison. ^[21] The victim's family later criticised heavily the nature of the media's distressingly over-descriptive reporting of the murder. ^[21] McGrady later appealed for a lower minimum term to be set by the Court of Appeal, but this was rejected.
40	MCLOUGHLIN	IAN JOHN	Judicial	2014	In 1984, McLoughlin bludgeoned Len Delgatty with a hammer before strangling him. The jury chose to convict him of manslaughter (rather than murder) on 19 September 1984, and he was sentenced to 10 years imprisonment. On 27 June 1985, this was reduced to eight years on appeal. In September 1990, seventeen months after his release in 1989, he murdered Peter Halls in Brighton, and was sentenced to life at Lewes Crown Court in July 1992, with the Lord Chief Justice recommending a minimum term of 14 years. 21 years later, on 13 July 2013, he was released on temporary licence , and, on that day, during the course of a robbery murdered Graham Buck , an innocent man investigating his neighbour's cries for help. McLoughlin was convicted of robbery and murder, and was initially sentenced to life with a minimum term of 40 years, and 8 years concurrent for the robbery. Following a ruling by UK judges in February 2014 that whole life tariffs were lawful, McLoughlin's 40-year sentence was quashed, and a whole life order was applied to him. ^[51]

41	MILLER	VICTOR GLENFORD	Home Sec	1988	A predator who abducted, sexually assaulted and battered to death a 14-year-old boy from Hagley in Worcestershire in January 1988. He confessed after being arrested for an unrelated crime and led detectives to the body. Police later revealed they believed Miller was responsible for almost 30 unsolved sexual assaults. In court, he confessed openly to the killing and asked for the maximum sentence available. Although he was set a tariff of 25 years which was reactivated after the November 2002 law lords' ruling, meaning he could be considered for release in 2013, Miller has asked the Home Office not to consider him for release at any point in the future, and therefore actively wishes to die in prison. Miller's trial judge had also expressed doubt as to whether it would be safe for him ever to be released.
42	MOORE	PETER HOWARD	Home Sec	1996	Moore murdered four men in apparently sexually motivated attacks in Wales. He confessed to police but claimed at trial it was in fact a fictional lover, "Jason", who had killed them. Following his conviction the judge said he would urge the Home Secretary to impose the whole life tariff; it was revealed in 2011 that he remained subject to this after the press reported he was one of three prisoners challenging the legality of the order before the European Court of Human Rights. ^{[13][14]}
43	NEWELL	LEE WILLIAM	Judicial	2013	Convicted alongside Gary Smith for the February 2013 murder of convicted child killer Subhan Anwar in his cell at HMP Long Lartin. Newell was already serving a life sentence for a previous murder committed in 1988 and received a whole life sentence on 23 September 2013. ^[48]
44	NILSEN	DENNIS ANDREW	Home Sec	1983	An ex-policeman who murdered and dismembered 15 young men at his homes in North London, storing the body parts inside and around the residences. Nilsen was arrested after workmen investigating a blocked and odorous drain found human flesh. Nilsen's trial judge originally recommended a 25-year minimum sentence, but successive Home Secretaries decided that he should never be released from prison. The November 2002 law lords' ruling meant that Nilsen could have been released from prison as early as 2008; however, this has not transpired and he remains imprisoned. Nilsen has also been denied the right to publish his autobiography in addition to music and poetry from prison
45	O'HARA	PAUL	Judicial	2014	Described by police as "a predatory, violent individual", O'Hara was sentenced to a whole life term on 30 June 2014 after admitting murdering his girlfriend Cherylee Shennan. On 17 March 2014, Shennan was in her own home giving evidence to two police officers about domestic abuse suffered at O'Hara's hands when he burst in, attacked the two officers with a hammer and chased Shennan into the street where he then fatally stabbed her. O'Hara had been previously sentenced to life in 1998 for murdering another girlfriend in "very similar circumstances" , and had only been released on licence in 2013. ^[54]
46	REGAN	KENNETH ROY	Judicial	2005	Achieved notoriety in 2005 as he too was involved, with William Horncy, in the murder of millionaire Amarjit Chohan as well as Chohan's wife, mother-in-law and two sons , whose bodies were never found. ^[18] He was a former drug dealer, who turned to being a Police supergrass to gain himself early release from prison for a prior crime. ^[19] He murdered Amarjit Chohan and his family in an effort to take over the Chohan family freight business to ship drugs into the UK. ^[18]

47	REYNOLDS	JAMIE	Judicial	2013	Pleaded guilty to murdering teenager Georgia Williams. The judge handed down a whole life term after reading reports stating that Reynolds could progress into a serial killer. The court also heard evidence of pornographic material found on Reynolds' computer, with 72 graphic videos and more than 16,000 graphic images.[49] Sentenced to life at age 23, Reynolds is currently the youngest person in British history to be handed a whole life tariff, and in April 2014 it was announced that he would be appealing for a reduction in his sentence, and on 31 October 2014, it was announced that Reynolds had lost his appeal.
48	ROSSER	ANWAR	Judicial	2014	"Psychotic, bullying alcoholic" 33 year old Anwar Rosser, a former soldier, murdered sleeping four-year-old Riley Turner in a "savage and sadistic" attack on 20 January 2012 while Rosser was staying at the Turner family home. The motive for the killing remains unknown.[50]
49	SMITH	MICHAEL	Judicial	2007	Attacked his victim with a bottle. This was a second life sentence, as he had already served time in prison for an earlier murder . The most recent murder occurred in Stafford, and he was convicted in 2007
50	SMITH	GARY DAVID	Judicial	2013	Smith, along with accomplice Lee Newell, murdered convicted child killer Subhan Anwar in his cell at HMP Long Lartin on 14 February 2013 by strangling him with tracksuit trousers. Smith was already serving a life sentence for a previous murder committed in 1998. He received a whole life sentence on 23 September 2013.[48]
51	SWEENEY	JOHN	Judicial	2010	Convicted of murdering two women whose bodies were found mutilated and dumped in canals in London and the Netherlands. ^[36]
52	TAYLOR	JOHN	Judicial	2013	John Taylor[1] is a convicted murderer and rapist. He was a parcel delivery worker,[1] and lived on the same estate as Leanne Tiernan. He pleaded guilty to her murder in July 2012. The police and prosecution maintained that he cable tied her hands behind her back in the bedroom in preparation for rape, and then used a cable tie as a ligature to murder her when her blindfold slipped and she saw his face.[4][12][13] When asked why he had abducted Tiernan, he replied: "I have no idea".[7] When police challenged his version of taking the body to Lindley Woods soon after the murder, he claimed that he had first kept the body hidden underneath pallets in his back garden, and then stored her inside his sofa.[5]. The police had his DNA and compared it to DNA on unsolved rapes. On 18 October 1988, when a 32-year old woman was attacked as she walked to collect her children from school. Taylor, who was wearing a mask and armed with a knife, forced her to carry out oral sex and then raped her.[14][15] The second rape took place on 1 March 1989 when Taylor, again masked and wielding a knife, broke into the home of a 21-year old woman in the middle of the day. He forced her into the bedroom, where he undressed her, blindfolded and gagged her, and then forced her to commit oral sex before raping her.[14] Her small child was present in the house at the time.[15] Taylor was formally rearrested in October 2002 and charged with the rapes. The police maintained that Taylor could have been a serial sex attacker for twenty years.[17] Taylor has denied involvement in any other crimes. For the rapes, Taylor was given whole life (with the Judge no doubt passing a global term).

53	TILEY	DAVID	Judicial	2007	Two months after he was released from prison, after being convicted of two counts of rape, he stabbed to death his disabled fiancée Susan Hale, who suffered from a degenerative brain disorder, and then killed her carer Sarah Merritt at their home in Southampton. ^[23]
54	TOBIN	PETER	Judicial	2009	Convicted of the murder of Dinah McNicol in Margate, Kent in 1991. Tobin had already been convicted in Scotland for the murder that same year of Vicky Hamilton whose body was found in Tobin's back garden alongside that of McNicol, and also for the murder of Angelika Kluk in a Glasgow church in 2006. Tobin was already currently serving two concurrent prison sentences in Scotland (which does not have the whole life tariff) of 21 years and 30 years for the murders of Angelika Kluk and Vicky Hamilton respectively, when in December 2009 he was found guilty of Dinah McNicol's murder and sentenced to life imprisonment - this time with a recommendation that life must mean life. However, the minimum terms Tobin was already serving for the two other murders were effectively "whole life" sentences as he was over 60 years old when sentenced. Peter Tobin is not listed in the CPS list as he is serving his whole life tariff, (which was imposed in England) in a Scottish prison.
55	VINTER	GARY DOUGLAS	Judicial	2008	Strangled and murdered his wife Anne White in Normanby, Teesside, on 10 February 2008. He admitted the murder in court two months later, and was already on life licence having spent nine years in prison for a previous murder in the mid 1990s. ^[26] Vinter applied to the High Court for lesser minimum term to be set, but this appeal was rejected in June 2009. Vinter was among the killers who mounted the successful legal challenge against the whole life tariff in July 2013, 18 months after the original challenge was rejected. ^[27]
56	WEST	ROSEMARY PAULIN	Home Sec	1995	Convicted for the murder of ten women and girls at her home in Gloucester, including one of her daughters and a stepdaughter. Her husband, Frederick West, committed suicide in jail before he could stand trial for a total of 12 murders (two of which occurred just before the couple met in 1968). Hindley's death left West as the only confirmed female prisoner on the whole life tariff register.[4]
57	WRIGHT	ERNEST LESLIE AL	Judicial	2010	Convicted of the execution-style murder of Neville Corby (aged 42) with a shotgun and the simultaneous attempted murder of Corby's partner. Had been previously convicted of murder in 1971 and served 26 years.[31]
